List of figures List of tables Preface	þage xii xiii xv
List of commonly used abbreviations and key terms	xvii
<ul><li>The rise of the value-added tax</li><li>1 What lies behind the remarkable rise of the VAT?</li></ul>	1 5 8
<ul> <li>2 Overview of the book</li> <li>2.1 Part I – The rise of the value-added tax – Exploring the gap between expectation and delivery</li> </ul>
2.2 Part II – Explaining the rise of the VAT 2.3 Part III – Case studies on the real-world challenges of	9
VAT reform	12
PART I THE RISE OF THE VALUE-ADDED TAX - EXPLORING THE GAP BETWEEN EXPECTATION AND DELIVERY
<ul> <li>An introduction to the good VAT</li> <li>1 Defining the good VAT</li> </ul>	17 17
<ul><li>2 Measuring the merits of the good VAT</li><li>2.1 Consumption is the preferred tax base</li></ul>	20 21
<ul><li>2.2 The good VAT measured against public finance criteria</li><li>3 Prescribing the good VAT – A comparison with other</li></ul>	25
VAT alternatives 4 Norm 1 – A broad consumption base at a single rate with minin	35 nal exclusions 4.1 Extend the good VAT through all stages of the production a	41 and distribution chain	45

	<ul> <li>4.2 Maintain a broad VAT base with minimal exclusions</li> <li>4.3 Levy the VAT at a single rate</li> <li>5 Norm 2 – Calculation of VAT liability using the invoice-credit mechanism</li> <li>5.1 Operation of the invoice-credit mechanism</li> <li>5.2 The advantages of the invoice-credit method over other methods</li> <li>6 Norm 3 – Levying VAT on a destination basis</li> <li>7 Conclusion</li> </ul>	46 68 70 70 72 77 80
3	<ul> <li>An introduction to the many real VATs in existence</li> <li>1 Defining real VATs</li> <li>2 Measuring the merits of real VATs</li> <li>2.1 Preference for consumption</li> <li>2.2 Revenue generation</li> <li>2.3 Neutrality</li> <li>2.4 Efficiency</li> <li>2.5 Growth</li> <li>2.6 Simplicity</li> </ul>	81 83 84 86 89 90 92 94
	<ul> <li>2.7 Equity</li> <li>3 Assessing real VATs against the three design norms of the good VAT</li> <li>4 Norm 1 – A broad consumption base at a single rate with minimal exclusions</li> <li>4.1 Most real VATs do not reach a broad consumption base</li> <li>4.2 Most real VATs have multiple exclusions to their base</li> <li>4.3 Many real VATs are levied at multiple rates</li> <li>4.4 The impact of departures from norm 1 on the incidence of real VATs</li> </ul>	94 97 98 99 105 116 118
	<ul> <li>5 Norm 2 – Calculation of VAT liability using the invoice-credit mechanism</li> <li>5.1 Denials and delays in the payment of refunds</li> <li>5.2 VAT Fraud and Avoidance</li> <li>5.3 Administrative and compliance costs</li> <li>6 Norm 3 – Levying real VATs on a destination basis</li> <li>7 Conclusion</li> </ul>	119 120 124 131 136 143
	PART II EXPLAINING THE RISE OF THE VAT
4	<ul> <li>The conventional approach to explaining the rise of the VAT</li> <li>Celebration over explanation – Explaining the VAT's rise by reference to its merits</li> <li>The strong articulation – Merits as the reason for the VAT's rise</li> <li>2.1 Deficiencies in the strong articulation of the merits explanation</li> </ul>	147 148 152 155

viii

3 The weak articulations – Merits as underpinning evolutionary or fashionable growth and yardstick competition 3.1 Deficiencies in the account of evolutionary or fashionable	159
growth and yardstick competition	161
4 The weak articulations – Merits as the basis for the promotion of VAT by transnational actors	161
4.1 Intergovernmental organisations	162
4.2 A limited account of direct influence	165
4.3 Failing to account for indirect influence	169
5 Actors frequently overlooked by the conventional approach	171
5.1 Advisers and consultants	171
5.2 Business organisations	173
5.3 Aid and development agencies	175
6 The neglect of domestic context	176
7 Conclusions on the conventional approach to explaining the rise of the VAT	182
Toward an alternative approach to explaining the rise of the VAT	185
1 The application of public policy analysis to taxation	185
2 Public choice	188
2.1 Choice under constraints	191
2.2 A focus on how the choices under constraints of political	/ actors might impact the good VAT	193
2.3 The challenge of public choice to the conventional approach	200
2.4 Limitations of public choice	203
3 Historical institutionalism	204
3.1 The important legacy of history	206
3.2 Institutions and the dynamics of agency, ideas, power
and change	217
3.3 Further comparisons with public choice	222
3.4 Fiscal sociology	224
4 A new approach to explaining the rise of the VAT	226
4.1 Selecting the case studies of reform	233
PART III CASE STUDIES ON THE REAL-WORLD CHALLENGES OF VAT REFORM
Australia	241
1 We of the 'never ever' – The history of the introduction of a goods	+-
and services tax in Australia	242
1.1 The 1970s and the Asprey Committee	242

5

6

1.2 The 1980s Draft White Paper and National Taxation Summit 243

1.3 Fightback! and the 1993 federal election	<sup>2</sup> 45
1.4 'A new tax system'	<sup>2</sup> 47
2 Pathways to reform	249
2.1 Path-dependent framing of the merits of the GST	2 49
2.2 Drafting the GST	253
2.3 Constitutional constraints and the exclusion of food	254
2.4 Legislation by regulation	258
2.5 Lobbying and the divergent fates of the 'unholy alliance'	259
2.6 Administering the GST	267
3 Assessing the Australian GST against the three design norms for a good VAT	271
3.1 Norm 2 – Calculation of VAT liability using the invoice-credit	,
mechanism	272
3.2 Norm 3 – Levying VAT on a destination basis	282
4 Norm 1 – A broad consumption base at a single rate with minimal
exclusions	284
4.1 Unintended consequences of a single rate	284
4.2 Failure to reach a broad consumption base	293
4.3 Legislating for a consumption base	296
5 Conclusion	336
The United States	338
The United States	338 339
The United States 1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States	339
The United States 1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States 1.1 Early paths	339 340
The United States 1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States 1.1 Early paths 1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes	339 340 343
The United States 1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States 1.1 Early paths	339 340 343 355
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> </ul>	339 340 343 355 363
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 – The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> </ul>	339 340 343 355 363 37 <sup>2</sup>
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 – The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> <li>1.5 The current state of play – Post-2005 reform trends</li> </ul>	339 340 343 355 363 37 <sup>2</sup> 375
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 – The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> <li>1.5 The current state of play – Post-2005 reform trends</li> <li>2 Future pathways to reform</li> </ul>	339 340 343 355 363 37 <sup>2</sup>
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s - Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s - Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 - The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> <li>1.5 The current state of play - Post-2005 reform trends</li> <li>2 Future pathways to reform</li> <li>2.1 Structural features of US tax policy-making</li> </ul>	339 340 343 355 363 372 375 377
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 – The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> <li>1.5 The current state of play – Post-2005 reform trends</li> <li>2 Future pathways to reform</li> <li>2.1 Structural features of US tax policy-making</li> <li>2.2 Interest groups, business and lobbyists</li> </ul>	339 340 343 355 363 372 375 377
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 – The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> <li>1.5 The current state of play – Post-2005 reform trends</li> <li>2 Future pathways to reform</li> <li>2.1 Structural features of US tax policy-making</li> <li>2.2 Interest groups, business and lobbyists</li> <li>2.3 The VAT as one of many competing proposals and the</li> </ul>	339 340 343 355 363 372 375 377 385
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 – The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> <li>1.5 The current state of play – Post-2005 reform trends</li> <li>2 Future pathways to reform</li> <li>2.1 Structural features of US tax policy-making</li> <li>2.2 Interest groups, business and lobbyists</li> <li>2.3 The VAT as one of many competing proposals and the path-dependent framing of merits</li> </ul>	339 340 343 355 363 372 375 377 385
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 – The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> <li>1.5 The current state of play – Post-2005 reform trends</li> <li>2 Future pathways to reform</li> <li>2.1 Structural features of US tax policy-making</li> <li>2.2 Interest groups, business and lobbyists</li> <li>2.3 The VAT as one of many competing proposals and the path-dependent framing of merits</li> <li>2.4 Disputes about the merits of the VAT and the path-dependent</li> </ul>	339 340 343 355 363 372 375 377 385 385
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 – The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> <li>1.5 The current state of play – Post-2005 reform trends</li> <li>2 Future pathways to reform</li> <li>2.1 Structural features of US tax policy-making</li> <li>2.2 Interest groups, business and lobbyists</li> <li>2.3 The VAT as one of many competing proposals and the path-dependent framing of merits</li> <li>2.4 Disputes about the merits of the VAT and the path-dependent assessment of merits</li> </ul>	339 340 343 355 363 372 375 377 385 385
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 – The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> <li>1.5 The current state of play – Post-2005 reform trends</li> <li>2 Future pathways to reform</li> <li>2.1 Structural features of US tax policy-making</li> <li>2.2 Interest groups, business and lobbyists</li> <li>2.3 The VAT as one of many competing proposals and the path-dependent framing of merits</li> <li>2.4 Disputes about the merits of the VAT and the path-dependent assessment of merits</li> <li>3 How a potential US VAT might measure up against</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>339</li> <li>340</li> <li>343</li> <li>355</li> <li>363</li> <li>372</li> <li>375</li> <li>377</li> <li>385</li> <li>387</li> <li>387</li> <li>390</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States</li> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>1.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 – The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> <li>1.5 The current state of play – Post-2005 reform trends</li> <li>2 Future pathways to reform</li> <li>2.1 Structural features of US tax policy-making</li> <li>2.2 Interest groups, business and lobbyists</li> <li>2.3 The VAT as one of many competing proposals and the path-dependent framing of merits</li> <li>2.4 Disputes about the merits of the VAT and the path-dependent assessment of merits</li> <li>3 How a potential US VAT might measure up against the three design norms for the good VAT</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>339</li> <li>340</li> <li>343</li> <li>355</li> <li>363</li> <li>372</li> <li>375</li> <li>377</li> <li>385</li> <li>387</li> <li>387</li> <li>390</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>The United States</li> <li>1 A history of the VAT reform debate in the United States <ol> <li>1.1 Early paths</li> <li>2.2 1960s and 1970s – Task force, blueprints and syndromes</li> <li>1.3 The 1980s – Reform and Reaganomics</li> <li>1.4 Post-TRA86 – The euphoria is short lived; crisis ensues</li> <li>1.5 The current state of play – Post-2005 reform trends</li> </ol> </li> <li>2 Future pathways to reform <ol> <li>2.1 Structural features of US tax policy-making</li> <li>2.2 Interest groups, business and lobbyists</li> <li>2.3 The VAT as one of many competing proposals and the path-dependent framing of merits</li> <li>2.4 Disputes about the merits of the VAT and the path-dependent assessment of merits</li> </ol> </li> <li>3 How a potential US VAT might measure up against the three design norms for the good VAT <ol> <li>3.1 Key sources of departures from a broad consumption</li> </ol> </li> </ul>	<ul> <li>339</li> <li>340</li> <li>343</li> <li>355</li> <li>363</li> <li>372</li> <li>375</li> <li>377</li> <li>385</li> <li>387</li> <li>390</li> <li>395</li> </ul>

x
		Ζ

7

Contents	xi
<ul> <li>8 Conclusions on the rise of the value-added tax</li> <li>1 Part I – The rise of the value-added tax – The gap between</li> </ul>	407
<ul> <li>expectation and delivery</li> <li>Part II – Explaining the rise of the value-added tax</li> <li>Part III – Case studies on the real-world challenges of VAT reform</li> <li>Clearing the path to reveal real trends</li> </ul>	407 408 n 410 415
Bibliography Index	421 469